

The Intelligencer.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wheeling, W. Va., as second-class mail matter.

FREW & CAMPBELL,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

MONDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 7.

The Kansas Legislature has voted to place a statue of John Brown in the National Gallery at Washington.

There are 20,841 Chinese residents in San Francisco, who, it is said, pay a tax of $36,025.95 on a total valuation of $5,000,000.

There was manufactured in the State of Michigan during the year 1880, 3,933,187, 227 feet of lumber, of which 886,617,770 feet are still on hand.

Representative Cabell, of Virginia, had letter from a constituent the other day saying: "My friend Mr. Hoed years ago moved West; I cannot hear from him. Will you please go to the Census Office, look over the lists and send me word where he is?"

The simplest postoffice in the world is in Magellan Straits, and has been established there for some years past. It consists of a small cask, which is chained to the rock of the extreme cape in the straits, opposite Terra del Fuego. Each passing ship takes a boat to open the cask and to take letters out and to place others in it. The postoffice is self-acting therefore; it is under the protection of the waves of all nations, and up to the present there is not one case to report in which any abuse of the privileges it affords has taken place.

Nelson's Midway on Lake Michigan.

A proof of the severity of the present winter is shown in the fact that on Saturday a party of three gentlemen had a sleigh-ride on Chicago harbor to the "crib," the water around the month of which is only kept open by the constant work of a tug. A sweep with a field-glass from the lighthouse revealed the fact that nothing but a field of unbroken ice could be seen lakeward, greater in extent than has been known for thirty years. Some apprehensions are felt as to the result when the break-up comes, but it will require several hours of strong wind, creating a heavy current down the lake, to do this.

The Legislature and the Manufacture and Sale of Spirits.

The Senate agreed last Friday by a large majority (18 to 5) to take up Senate joint resolution No. 9, out of its usual order, and on motion of Senator Finkler it was made the special order for next Friday at 2:30 o'clock. The resolution provides as follows:

Resolved, That the following amendment to Article VI of the Constitution of the State, be and the same is hereby proposed, to-wit: That section 46 of Article VI of the Constitution as it now is, be stricken out and the following inserted in lieu thereof: "That the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors shall be forever prohibited in this State, except for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes; and the Legislature shall enforce the same by appropriate legislation."

The section of the Constitution which this amendment proposes to amend is as follows:

Section 46—Article VI. Laws may be passed regulating or prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within the limits of this State.

There are already a multitude of petitions before the Legislature, signed by about nineteen thousand people up to this time, representing every part of the State, and also all political parties, as well as every variety of religious creed and faith, praying the two houses to submit the amendment which we have quoted. The present indications are that the Legislature will decide to submit the question, to be voted on some time during this year. Many of the members take the ground that such an act on their part is nothing more or less than what is respectful and right towards the large and influential public sentiment of the State which requests such action at their hands. In this position they are clearly right. No matter what their own private sentiments may be—no matter whether they intend to vote for or against the amendment at the polls—it is their duty as legislators to take cognizance of the wishes of nineteen thousand respectable people in the State, and at their request give them and others for whom they speak an opportunity to test public sentiment touching the necessity or expediency of adopting the proposed amendment.

We have already alluded to the movement making among our Ohio neighbors on this question. They are moving over there for a local option law—such a law as was before the people of Pennsylvania not long ago. As we understand it, there are now a decided majority of counties in Pennsylvania in which intoxicating liquors are not allowed to be sold as beverages. Indeed, here in our own State there are about one-half of the counties that do not grant a license to sell liquors as beverages, and it is not to be disguised that the growing and aggressive public sentiment of the State is radically in the temperance direction. The statistics of crime, poverty, vagrancy, illiteracy, insanity and pauperism, have so constantly pressed themselves on the attention of the people in connection with the discussions of the liquor question, and have made such a profound impression, that public sentiment has ripened into an attitude of decided hostility to the whole traffic. To such an extent is this the status of public opinion to-day that there is at least an even chance, if not a preponderance of chances, that the proposed amendment will be adopted if submitted. The people have studied the records of the penitentiaries, the insane hospitals, the jails, workhouses and children's homes, and have seen that a very large majority of the inmates owe their presence in these places to liquor in some shape or other, and they have steadily progressed toward the fixed conclusion that the great foe above all others with which the civilization of the age has to grapple is the increasing proportions of the manufacture and sale of liquor as a beverage.

Mammoon's vigor is lost when the body is wasted by dyspepsia, sick headache or liver complaint. For this pitiable condition Tait's Pills are a specific. The vigor and elasticity of youth, and buoyancy of spirits, will follow their use. They give pure blood and solid flesh.

THE IDEAS OF MARCH.

The Very Elaborate and Brilliant Ceremonies Planned for the Inauguration of President Garfield—How it is Proposed to Accommodate All Who Attend.

There is no question but what the inauguration of President Garfield on the fourth day of March, in far larger numbers of people from each than has ever before characterized a similar event. The general committee at Washington, in charge of the ceremonies and attendant proceedings, is, beyond all comparison, the most enterprising and energetic the National Capital has ever before presented. Another striking feature of the coming inauguration is that money has been most cheerfully subscribed to a very large amount, and that sort of thing will be more extensive and magnificent than hitherto known in the country's history. The committee has called to its aid the genius of not a few noted artists, and the spectacle throughout, from an artistic standpoint, will certainly be a most memorable one. A portion of the programme, which cannot but call out no little State pride on the part of the people in attendance, is the determination to erect grand arches for each and every one of the States of the Union. These arches will be designed and perfected with an eye to presenting some distinctive interest of each State. Triumphant arches will be erected at the entrance of the Capitol grounds, at the White House and at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, and other arches will doubtless be erected at different points in the city, through the efforts of private citizens. The decorations of public buildings will be very grand and the enthusiastic determination to vie with each other in private decorations indicates no constant succession of brilliant scenes throughout the city as to almost bewildering the eye-seer. Great attention has been paid to making certain the participation in the grand parade of military organizations from all over the Union, and from as many States as possible. There can be no doubt that the military parade will be the finest since the grand review at the close of the war. A very pleasing feature of the parade will be the presence of several of the crack organizations of the South. A number of these already received there can be no doubt that the military parade will be the finest since the grand review at the close of the war. NEW PREMIUM CORN SHELDER.

ONLY CHEAP PRICES! HAND CORN SHELDER.

MADE BY THE NEW YORK CORN SHELDER.

TWO IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES.

FIRST—It does not injure the corn, and is therefore just the thing for the miller to use for grinding.

SECOND—The tip end and butt end of the corn can be ground separately, and the whole of the ear into shreds, which has immense value, as many farmers plant only the corn from the middle in for the shelling corn, so neither for meal, for feed, or for any similar purpose, but they have now a sheller which will do all this for them.

It will pay for itself many times.

Every Farmer wants this sheller for the shelling corn, for the meal, for feed, or for any similar purpose, but they have now a sheller which will do all this for them.
